CONTRACTOR VETTING QUESTIONS

- Have you ever had a frustrating experience with a subcontractor or supplier? How did you handle it, and what could have been done differently to prevent the issue?
- What challenges do you typically face when working with clients, and how do you manage difficult client expectations?
- Can you recall a time when a project didn't go as planned due to unforeseen circumstances? How did you navigate the situation, and what lessons did you learn from it?
- What are some common frustrations you encounter during the bidding and estimating process? How do you ensure accuracy and transparency when providing project quotes?
- Are there any specific industry regulations or bureaucratic hurdles that cause frustration in your line of work? How do you stay up-to-date with these regulations and ensure compliance?
- Have you ever faced issues related to project delays caused by external factors? How do you communicate and manage client expectations when such delays occur?
- How do you handle client, subcontractor, or supplier disputes or conflicts? Can you share a specific example and the resolution reached?
- What steps do you take to maintain effective communication and collaboration with your team, especially when working on large-scale projects?
- Are there any aspects of the contractor-client relationship that you find particularly challenging? How do you establish trust and foster positive working relationships with clients?
- In your experience, what are the most frustrating aspects of managing a construction project? How do you mitigate these challenges and ensure successful project completion?

Remember, these questions prompt discussion and reflection on venting experiences as a contractor. Feel free to tailor them or add more context based on your specific situation.
